

The Nancy Leiter Clagett Trophy

In 1980, C. Thomas Clagett, Jr., donated a perpetual trophy in the memory of his wife, Nancy Leiter Clagett. Nancy was an exceptional sailor and a tough competitor who displayed her sportsmanship qualities in everything she did throughout her life. In 1995 Tom started the companion regatta to this event, U.S. Doublehanded Championship sailed for the Ida Lewis Trophy, currently known as the U.S. Junior Women's Doublehanded Championship. The family continues Tom's dedication and commitment to Junior Women's sailing through C. Thomas Clagett Trust sponsorship of this clinic and regatta. This support is intended to encourage young American women to enhance their sailing ability, with emphasis on sportsmanship, by providing the opportunity to compete in national-level competition with guidance from high-level coaching.
